

Michael Lickers is a well-known Mohawk educator from Six Nations.

Michael is a Senior Advisor of Aboriginal Relations and Community Development for Suncor Energy. Founder and past Executive Director of the Ghost River Rediscovery program, Michael has over 30 years of experience in leadership, outdoor education, community development and youth leadership development.

Michael has a Masters in Leadership and Training and is completing his Doctorate of Social Sciences at Royal Roads University with a focus on Indigenous Youth Leadership. Michael teaches the courses "Canadian Aboriginal Issues" and "Indigenous Ways of Knowing" in the University of Calgary's International Indigenous Studies program. Michael is author of "Urban Aboriginal Leadership: The Delicate Dance Between Two Worlds," and has published articles on youth leadership, international youth programs, and community development.

Michael brings a unique combination of rigorous professionalism, wide program development and leadership experience, grounded in traditional cultural teachings.